9) Obtained results, own contribution, practical usability of the delivered work*:

In collaboration with Satakunta University of Applied Sciences in Finland, the student connects a GSM base station placed at CTU- FEE to a mobile network test-bed that is built in Finland. The established interconnection was then tested from the point of voice and data communication. The implemented remote base station will be used in the education process of KME program.

10) Remarks*:

I have comments regarding to language level, there are several grammar and typing errors in the document, the student should paid more attention when finalizing the document. In addition, certain sections are quite difficult to understand and follow due to complicated structure of sentences. Moreover, meaning of Annex 1 and 2 is not explained in the text.

11) Questions related to the work (to be answered during the final presentation)*:

Permit the final presentation: recommended not-recommended
